The most influential and progressive Oklahoma cattle producers read The Cowman each month. The publication is produced 12 times a year by the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association and is supported by print and digital content to match. For decades, the OCA has had one goal, which is to keep cattlemen informed.

Over time, the OCA has adapted to meet the changing needs of the industry. That commitment is why The Cowman remains a trusted source of information today, with the magazine reaching more than 5,600 readers each month.

Email Blasts

Email blasts will be sent to the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association email list and linked directly to the advertiser's website. They will be sent only on Tuesdays and Thursdays, with Fridays available for special accommodations only. Only three email blasts will be sent per week. Email blasts are paid advertisements intended to promote the purchaser's products or services. They should not mention OCA or include the OCA logo. Graphic placements must be submitted as high quality JPGs or PNGs at least two business days before the scheduled send date. HTML files are also accepted, but must be submitted to OCA staff at least one week in advance to allow time for coding and proofing. Graphic placement sizes may vary, and there is no specific size requirement for email blasts.

OCA Social Media

The Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association Facebook page has more than 27,900 followers and maintains the largest social media presence of any Oklahoma agricultural organization. Due to the strong engagement of our audience, advertisers have increasingly requested paid social media shares.

The OCA will sell only one paid social media share per week, with scheduling available on a first come, first serve basis. Content must be submitted at least one week prior to the scheduled post date. Social media graphics must be sized at 1010 px x 1010 px. A $25 discount will be applied for every three shares purchased. Discounts are reflected in the prices below.
