Welcome FROM THE PRESIDENT

FORD DRUMMOND
President

Welcome to the 74th Annual Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association Convention and Trade Show! Since 1953, OCA members have gathered each year to exchange ideas, explore new tools and practices, and strengthen the bonds that tie us together as cattle producers. While our meeting places and timelines have evolved, the core reason for this event remains unchanged, and more relevant than ever.

This year's theme, "Cattlemen of Tomorrow: Built by the Brand," celebrates the values, traditions, and people who have shaped our industry while investing in the next generation of cattle producers. The brands we carry represent more than ownership. They reflect a legacy of hard work, stewardship, and commitment to agriculture. This convention provides an opportunity to learn, connect, address industry challenges, and help shape the future of Oklahoma's beef cattle industry for generations to come.

OCA is proud to be a grassroots, member led organization. Your voice matters here. I encourage every member to attend committee meetings and our General Business Meeting. The direction of our association and our industry is determined by those who show up and speak up.

Thank you for making OCA a part of your business strategy. Your commitment helps drive our collective success. On behalf of our officers and staff, we're glad you're here and hope you leave energized, informed, and proud to be part of the 74th Annual OCA Convention and Trade Show.

OCA / OCW / OJCA JOINT OPENING SESSION: JUST THE FACTS: NEW WORLD SCREWORM UPDATE

Session sponsored by

DR. ROD HALL, DVM

Dr. Rod Hall was raised on small beef and dairy farms near Ada, Oklahoma. After completing his pre-veterinary studies at East Central University, he earned his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree from Oklahoma State University in 1977. Following graduation, Dr. Hall practiced in Alva, Oklahoma, for one year before opening a mixed animal practice in Tishomingo in 1978. In 2006, he joined Animal Industry Services within the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, Food, and Forestry, where he worked with the Brucellosis, Tuberculosis, Trichomoniasis, Johne's Disease, and Livestock Market Inspection programs. He was appointed Oklahoma State Veterinarian in June 2011.

Dr. Hall is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association and the Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Association. In recognition of his service and contributions to the profession, he was named Oklahoma Veterinarian of the Year at the Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Association's 2016 Annual Convention.

DR. ROSSLYN BIGGS,
DVM

Dr. Rosslyn Biggs was raised in Oklahoma as part of a farming and ranching family. She earned a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics from Oklahoma State University in 2001 and graduated from the Oklahoma State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2004 as a second generation veterinarian. Following graduation, she spent three years in mixed animal practice in Chickasha, Oklahoma, before joining USDA APHIS Veterinary Services in 2007 as a Field Veterinary Medical Officer and Foreign Animal Disease Diagnostician. In 2015, she became Assistant Veterinarian In Charge with APHIS Veterinary Export Trade Services, managing international exports of live animals and animal products across a six state region.

Dr. Biggs joined Oklahoma State University in 2019 and currently serves as Director of the Center for Rural Veterinary Medicine, Director of Continuing Education for the College of Veterinary Medicine, and Beef Cattle Specialist for Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service. Her professional interests include food supply veterinary issues, biosecurity, disease traceability, and beef cattle production. She and her husband have two daughters and remain actively involved in their family farming and ranching operation.

DR. JUSTIN TALLY

Justin Tally is currently the Department Head of Entomology and Plant Pathology (EPP) at Oklahoma State University. He received his PhD in Entomology in 2008 from Kansas State University under the direction of Alberto Broce. His advisor developed the wind-oriented traps for screwworms in the 70's. He received his BS and MS from West Texas A&M University where his MS research focused on pest management within beef feedyards. Previously, he served as the State Extension Specialist for Veterinary Entomology for the Oklahoma Cooperative Extension System and his appointment included Extension, research, and teaching while a faculty member. Research programs focused on pest management of important external parasites in livestock systems, animal mortality management systems and their role in attracting flies, and pathogen association with important external parasites including ticks and flies. In 2024 he was recognized for his contributions to the field by being named the Lifetime Achievement Award in Livestock Entomology recipient.

CATTLEMEN'S EDUCATION SERIES | SESSION 1: WEATHER OUTLOOK: IMPECCABLE RAINFALL TIMING

Session sponsored by

MATT MAKENS

You've seen his work from CattleFax and NCBA, Matt Makens has presented thousands of weather forecasts and outlooks to dozens of industries since the 1990s. With a specific focus, Matt formed Makens Weather, LLC in 2016 and grew quickly by providing actionable weather and climate information, clearly communicated. The primary focus is on long-term seasonal forecasts and short-term weather hazards for the agricultural industry. Makens Weather has served global clients from Australia to Canada and the United States.

Makens grew up outside of Castle Rock, Colorado, on a small acreage where he competed annually in the Douglas County Fair and Rodeo and was a livestock judging team member. Matt attended The University of Kansas - degreed in Atmospheric Science. He and his wife Hillary, also serving the beef industry, live in Douglas County, Colorado, where they are raising their two children.

CATTLEMEN'S EDUCATION SERIES | SESSION 2: THE ROLE OF PRESCRIBED BURNING IN LAND STEWARDSHIP

JOHN WEIR

John Weir is the senior extension specialist for prescribed fire and fire ecology in the Natural Resource Ecology and Management Department at Oklahoma State University. He has extension responsibilities relating to prescribed fire training and working with landowners to form prescribed burn associations, teaches two prescribed fire courses, and conducts fire ecology research. He has assisted with forming over 75 burn associations in nine states. In the past 40 years, he has conducted over 1,500 prescribed burns in vegetation ranging from shortgrass prairie to Oak-Pine Forest in nine states and Canada. He also has a book titled Conducted Prescribed Fires: A Comprehensive Manual. He is currently the president of the board of directors for the Oklahoma Prescribed Burn Association and serves on the boards of directors for the Great Plains Fire Exchange and the Oaks and Prairies Joint Venture. In 2015, he received the Henry Wright Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association for Fire Ecology.

COLE FAGEN

Cole Fagen serves as the Oaks and Prairies Coordinating Biologist. He received a master's degree in Natural Resource Ecology and Management from Oklahoma State University and a bachelor's degree in Natural Resource Management from Angelo State University. Passionate about land stewardship, Fagen works with private landowners to implement habitat conservation practices on the ground. His experience includes working with Prescribed Burn Associations across Oklahoma and serving with the Natural Resources Cooperative Extension at Oklahoma State University, helping landowners improve habitat management through science based conservation practices.

SETH COFFEY

Seth Coffey serves as the Regional Coordinator for the Oklahoma Prescribed Burn Association. A sixth generation rancher from southern Oklahoma, Coffey is a strong advocate for the use of prescribed fire as a tool for land stewardship. He has played an important role in promoting prescribed burning practices that help improve ecosystem health, reduce wildfire risk, and support working lands across the state. Through his experience in agriculture and ranching, Coffey works alongside landowners and local communities to advance the mission of the Oklahoma Prescribed Burn Association, helping ensure prescribed fire is used safely and effectively to enhance Oklahoma's landscapes for future generations.

CHAD SCHEIHING

Chad Scheihing serves as the Local Coordinator for the Canadian Rivers Prescribed Burn Association. A lifelong resident of Blaine County, Oklahoma, Chad has been a farmer, rancher, and landowner since 2007. A graduate of Geary Public Schools, he earned both his State and American FFA Degrees, establishing a foundation of leadership and service that continues today.

Chad and his wife, Katie, operate a cow-calf operation and are raising their three children, Caleigh, Grady, and Sage, who are actively involved in livestock showing and school activities. Dedicated to his community, Chad has served with the Greenfield Fire Department for 28 years, including 11 years as Fire Chief.

In addition to his agricultural and fire service experience, Chad is actively involved with both the Oklahoma Prescribed Burn Association and the Canadian Rivers Prescribed Burn Association. He works alongside landowners and conservation partners to promote the safe and effective use of prescribed fire as a land management tool. Through his background in agriculture, emergency response, and community leadership, Chad has built strong relationships across Blaine County and remains committed to responsible land stewardship and public service.

CATTLEMEN'S EDUCATION SERIES | SESSION 4: WHOSE WATER IS IT?

COLBY BYRD

Colby Byrd is a trial lawyer at McAfee & Taft, where his practice focuses on agriculture, business, and real estate litigation in state and federal courts, as well as in arbitrations and administrative proceedings. As a leader of McAfee & Taft's Agriculture and Equine Industry Group, he dedicates a significant portion of his practice to representing agricultural producers, businesses, and industry organizations in a wide range of matters affecting the agricultural sector.

His work includes representing farmers and ranchers in disputes involving private crop insurance providers and various subagencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, including the Farm Service Agency, Risk Management Agency, and Rural Development. Colby also devotes a substantial part of his practice to advising and representing clients on water rights issues.

An Oklahoma native, Colby earned a bachelor's degree in agribusiness from Oklahoma State University and received his law degree from the University of Oklahoma College of Law.

GARRETT REED

Garrett Reed is a trial lawyer at McAfee & Taft whose practice focuses on agriculture, business, and real estate litigation in state and federal courts, as well as in arbitrations and administrative proceedings. As a member of the firm's Agriculture & Equine Industry Group, Garrett represents agricultural entities, producers, and industry organizations in a wide range of matters affecting the industry.

His experience includes representing clients in general business litigation, landowners in condemnation actions and water rights matters, livestock owners and breed associations, agricultural producers involved in federal crop insurance and USDA farm program disputes, and landowners negotiating renewable energy agreements. Garrett also dedicates a significant portion of his practice to representing equine owners and equine breed associations.

An Oklahoma native, Garrett earned both his bachelor's degree in agribusiness and his master's degree in agricultural economics from Oklahoma State University before receiving his law degree from the University of Oklahoma College of Law. Garrett and his wife, Kinsey, also raise purebred Hereford and black baldy cattle.

HEAD HONCHOS

FRIDAY: 12:15 PM - 1:00 PM | LOCATION: MADRID 1-3

THE VANISHING WORKFORCE: LABOR ON THE ENDANGERED SPECIES LIST

The H2-A seasonal work visa program has become a critical solution to the growing shortage of farm and ranch labor across the country. For more than 40 years, the program has helped agricultural procedures secure a reliable workforce during demanding seasons when labor is limited. This talk highlights how thousands of farmers and ranchers are using H2-A employees to keep operations running efficiently, maintain productivity, and support the future of American agriculture in an increasingly challenging labor environment.

AMERICA'S LAND PARTNERS

FRIDAY: 3:00 PM - 3:30 PM | LOCATION: TRADE SHOW FLOOR

1031 EXCHANGES: LAND TRANSACTIONS & BEYOND

Looking to protect your investment and build long term wealth? America's 1031 Exchange helps agricultural producers, landowners, and investors defer capital gains taxes through customized 1031 Exchange solutions. From ranchland and farmland to commercial and recreational properties, their experienced team makes complex exchanges simple. Visit with America's Land Partners to learn how you can transition property, preserve equity, and reinvest with confidence in the future of your operation.

CERES TAG

FRIDAY: 4:00 PM - 4:30 PM | LOCATION: TRADE SHOW FLOOR

AUTOMATING FEED EFFICIENCY AND REPRODUCTIVE EFFICIENCY FOR INCREASED CATTLE PROFITABILITY

CERES Tag, a direct-to- satellite, solar powered smart tag, automates the collection of unique cattle phenotypes to enhance ranch profitability. It facilitates the tracking of cattle performance and behavior data- such as pasture feed intake and estrus activity- within a comprehensive platform. This system enables ranchers in any environment to better understand the relationship between their cattle and the land, supporting more tailored management decisions. As a result, producers can optimize growth at both the herd and individual animal levels, ultimately increasing overall profitability.

BARENBRUG USA

SATURDAY: 10:00 AM - 10:30 AM | LOCATION: TRADE SHOW FLOOR

FROM DUST- SHAPING THE FUTURE OF FORAGES

Across the United States, producers face a harsh reality: less land, less water, and more pressure to feed growing world. It's a crisis that demands more than tradition. It demands innovation. This short documentary follows Barenbrug's partners- Curtis & Curtis Seed Company, Beattie Sales & Service, and the 6666 Ranch- as they overcome land loss, climate strain, and rising demand while increasing stocking rates and individual gain per day. Followed by a short question and answer session.
